Committed to the Animal Welfare

The Center for Genetic Engineering and Biotechnology of Havana (CIGB), the Cuban Society of Pharmacology, The National Center for the Production of Laboratory Animals (CENPALAB), have the pleasure to announce the International workshop "Animal Models and Preclinical Research 2019" (AniMod 2019), to be held from May 5st to 9st, 2019 in Varadero, Cuba, the country in the Caribbean with endless summer.

The main objective of this workshop is to promote knowledge and application of animal welfare and 3Rs, stimulating a "Culture of Care", in the process of development and use of animal models. We also intend to promote scientific and regulatory advances in the preclinical phase of biopharmaceutical products.

The new edition will focus on updating the national and international scientific community in the most relevant results, providing an invaluable occasion for scientific exchange with the most relevant researchers in this field. You will have the opportunity to both network and key leaders from the international academic and corporate Animal Models and Preclinical Research communities.

The program of this event will cover the following topics:

1. Animal welfare and development of biopharmaceuticals products under pre-clinical regulatory requirements and the application of 3 Rs
2. Alternative methods to animal experimentation
3. IACUC and its role on the care and use of laboratory animal
4. Environmental Enrichment and Behavioral Management
5. Animal model development
6. Staff training and Facilities accreditation
7. Updating preclinical regulatory framework and development of the preclinical phase of biotechnological and pharmaceutical products

The great possibility to exchange and exhibit products from a specialized company will be also allowed in the framework of commercial technical sessions.

Hope to host you during the meeting!

Jorge Castro
President

Mario Landys
Scientific Secretary
